CCJP Grandparenting Period Begins

As previously noted, the period for qualified candidates to apply for grandparenting into the Certified Criminal Justice Addictions Professional (CCJP) credential begins on December 1, 2015 and goes through February 28, 2016. As of November 30, 2015, the required application is available through the CCB website. The process of grandparenting simply means that those who meet all of the identified standards are exempt from the IC&RC computer based CCJP exam during the assigned period. Grandparenting is open to any candidate, regardless if they currently hold a CCB credential or not. Individuals currently holding an active Certified Addiction Counselor (CAC) credential have to meet standards that are adjusted to include some of the competencies they have previously verified, while new candidates need to meet all identified standards. Credential fees are also adjusted professionals with an active CAC credential. All standards can be found in the application materials on the CCB website.